Diamond House

PERSONAL CARE HOME

OUR PHILOSOPHY

There is a world of difference at Diamond House. We are dedicated to creating a “home” which provides residents with an enhanced quality of life, comfortable and thoughtful accommodations and the freedom of choice. This includes developing and maintaining strong ties within the community and with family and friends. Diamond House believes everyone is equal and all residents, despite their different levels of care, deserve to live in an environment that makes them feel right at “home”. Our philosophy is based on the traditional values of caring for those who cared for us throughout our lifetimes.

OUR STORY

Our Vision: Golden Health Care will provide a home that supports every resident to have a “better everyday life” surrounded by love, laughter and respect.

Thank you for your interest in Diamond House. Diamond House is a personal care home that offers independent living, assisted living, personal care, skilled nursing care, convalescent care, respite or short term care and memory care, an “Aging in Place” philosophy.

Diamond House is located at 700 Ballesteros Cres in a beautiful residential area close to a golf course in Warman, Saskatchewan. This location was chosen for its scenic beauty and peaceful surroundings. This home will provide residents with access to safe outdoors areas for fresh air, walking, gardening, privacy and literally a different view of the world.

OUR ENVIRONMENT

There may be a substantial difference between what residents are currently doing and what they could be doing with the assistance of good programming and effective design. Many residents are more independent with the right environment, opportunities, equipment and help. The more responsive the environment is to the needs of the resident, by addressing the lengthy walking distances and the need for sunshine and access to safe and stimulating outdoor spaces, the more likely it is that the environment will also serve as a therapeutic tool for residents.

Diamond House recognizes that the way we design and build living environments has a significant impact on the health and well-being of the resident who lives there. After several years of research, Diamond House is designed to provide an environment that adapts to the needs of the resident instead of the resident trying to adapt to the environment.

A PLACE TO FEEL AT HOME

Home is in our minds. It is an emotional memory, and such a comforting idea that it does not require a lot of thinking. Diamond House believes it is important for residents to maintain a sense of dignity and ties to what is familiar and comfortable. If the environment seems familiar, residents are more likely to be able to understand and cope with the change of relocating to a new place to continue their lives. A homelike environment can make one feel cozy and comfortable, safe and secure and improve the quality of life.

Diamond House is architecturally designed and operated to provide a living environment that is as close to “home” as possible with every effort made to pattern the environment after the familiar, “the home” and the past. This helps to provide a soft transition to a new setting.

ESSENTIAL DESIGN ELEMENTS

Special attention is given to details such as tasteful wall coverings, fabric, furniture, carpeting, pets and plants. These details humanize the environment, making the inside warm and cozy and making the house a home.

Color influences human behavior; consciously or unconsciously and people respond to the colors around them. The right colors can help to change moods from sad to happy, dispel loneliness, encourage conversation and create a sense of peace and well being.

The key to happiness is to have family and friends share

Diamond House's environment uses color as an important tool in creating and defining space within each household and to enhance the lives of residents and create a sense of peace and well-being. Different colors are used to:

- Accommodate ease of visibility for the elderly eye
- Provide good contrast - especially between the walls and the floor
- Provide an attractive color scheme
- Help in area identification

Diamond House was specifically designed with many large windows to bring in the sun. The therapeutic benefits of sunshine are countless. The warm pastel colors, domestic furnishing and concealed lighting create a warm "home", something we all cherish in our lives.

SMALL GROUP SETTINGS

To every extent possible, Diamond House's 100 suites are designed to ensure that residents feel that they are a part of a small (rather than large) group. The transition from the small-scale residential environment to a large-scale group living situation can be very stressful and confusing. Some of the stress and confusion can be eliminated by the creation of smaller groups of residents on the scale of "family" rather than "institutional".

Diamond House's environment is designed into six small groups often referred to as "households" or "clusters" in which residents live in small groups of 15 - 18. Clustering creates a smaller, more personal environment, which adds continuity and familiarity to the lives of residents. Diamond House supports the "Aging in Place" concept so residents have the comfort of knowing that a cluster in the home is designated to provide a higher level of care for residents who require this service.

Each cluster has its own kitchen, dining room, living room, family room, sunrooms, spa rooms, and laundry rooms to provide an environment in which residents are familiar and comfortable and the opportunity for a range of activities (cooking, baking, laundry and exercise) typically found in homes. In addition, clustering eliminates long corridors, a centralized nursing station and one large dining room and day room, all of which are components that create an institutional looking environment. Instead, residents have a short walk to their kitchen, dining room and living room. This smaller living arrangement decreases noise and confusion and provides a therapeutic environment for residents.

OUR RESIDENT SUITES

All suites are very spacious to provide an opportunity for residents to personalize their home. We encourage families and caregivers to furnish and decorate the resident's room with his or her own furniture and personal mementos to bring the feeling of home into their suite.

All suites are user friendly to anyone requiring a wheelchair, walker or lift and come equipped with cable T.V. and internet connections, thermostat, telephone and call system, with a choice of kitchenette, shower or walk-in tub.

Diamond House has six different styles of suites, giving residents a choice of living accommodations to best meet their needs.

OUR OUTDOOR SPACES AND ACTIVITIES

The “activity” of life is a search for meaning and purpose. Dignity and the inner sense of worth arise from work, daily living, relationships, recreation and other meaningful productive activities. Diamond House is designed to support residents to function at “their best” to participate and to find value in living and in themselves.

Activities make up residents lives, including the basic activities of daily living, rising for a new day, bathing, dressing, grooming, eating and sharing experiences with friends. Activities and activity spaces frequently play a major role in establishing the non-institutional atmosphere of a setting, bringing more community and normalcy to a home setting. Diamond House has a kitchen, living room, dining room, family room and laundry area in each of the 6 houses to reinforce the sense of “home” for the residents. There are also 11 sunrooms that are designed and furnished to provide residents with art classes, music, library and book club, games room, wine making, greenhouses, massage room, Coffee shop, Great Room for worship, craft room, exercise room and a hair salon. We look forward to support new ideas and requests from our residents so they can continue to participate and find value in life and function at their best. “BE IN LOVE WITH YOUR LIFE, EVERY MINUTE OF IT”.

GROUP SOCIALIZATION

Diamond House’s environment supports involving residents in meaningful activities, in a home setting that encourages success and a sense of self-worth in the following ways:

- Social activity in small groups helps residents feel they are members of a community that cares. At Diamond House, most groups will be fewer than twenty people and provide another opportunity for socialization. In some clusters, groups will be designated as a “special club”. For example: the breakfast club, the morning out club or the men’s club. Activities generate friends, pride and membership.
- Exercise is also a good small group activity. The cumulative effects of even light exercise performed a few minutes at a time throughout the day are beneficial. Regular exercise is vital to maintaining maximum range of motion and use of joints.

OUR LITTLE EXTRAS

Diamond House has 4 spa rooms that are equipped with a therapeutic walk-in tub. There are also 11 suites that have walk-in tubs for those who enjoy long soaks. The tubs are designed to give the bather a hydro-thermo massage using air and water. This mix of air and water creates an efficient type of acupressure massage, kneading the bather from the base of the neck to the soles of the feet and everywhere in between for a thorough body massage.

All residents will have access to a call system that is worn as a pendant or a bracelet. This provides the resident with access to assistance when needed in the home.

Raised garden areas, gazebos and large decks are available to provide residents with ample space to enjoy the scenic country view and outdoor living.
